

without being beaten by Detective McLeod.

Two burglars, Charley Gennini and Lewis Abbott, are interrogated by Detectives Jim McLeod and Lou Brody. When Karl Schneider arrives with his lawyer Endicott Sims, Detective McLeod informs him that Miss Hatch, (cont. on back)

(Summary Continued—contains SPOILERS!) the doctor's accomplice, has implicated him and plans to identify him in a line-up. Dr. Schneider bribes Miss Hatch with a fur coat. Of course, after that, she fails to identify the doctor in the line-up. Jim McLeod erupts and tells Miss Hatch she is a liar. Later on he admits to a reporter, Joe Feinson, he hated his father who possessed a "criminal mind". His father eventually drove his mother into a lunatic asylum. This past is what made McLeod hunt for and put away evil-doers.

Meanwhile, Arthur Kindred's employer, a man named Albert R. Pritchett, comes in the precinct. He fully intends to press charges against Arthur Kindred for embezzlement. Mr. Kindred's friend, Susan Carmichael, arrives to help him. She has worked hard to gather $120 to go towards Mr. Pritchett, hoping against hope no charges will be filed against her friend Arthur. McLeod calls Mr. Kindred a thief trying to convince Susan that Arthur isn't worthy of her help, but Susan pleads with Mr. Pritchett. She swears the rest of the money will be in Mr. Pritchett's hands by the next day.

Later, Jim's wife, Mary McLeod, arrives at the station. She speaks with Lt. Monahan about whether she knows Giaccoppetti—believed to have dated Mary a long time ago. Also, if she knows Dr. Schneider. She denies ever knowing either of them, but when Giaccoppetti walks in and greets her, the story quickly turns brutal as the beloved becomes the betrayer.

Director's Notes:

This is a story of good versus evil and the brutality we inflict on each other when we refuse to see past our political ideas to basic human decency and forgiveness. It's an old story, born nearly seventy years ago when a playwright dragged the spotlight into a police precinct—giving birth to the crime drama.

In our modern day, one would hope that this story would no longer be relevant, but it is.

Central Cabarrus Proudly Presents

DETECTIVE STORY

November 30th & December 1st-2nd, 2017

THE STORY

Detective Jim McLeod, a hardened, bitter man, leads a precinct of characters in their grim daily task with the city's lowlife. Little does he realize that his pursuit of an abortionist, Dr. Karl Schneider will allow him to discover a terrible secret. (The following summary contains SPOILERS! Read at your own risk!)

McLeod meets one Endicott Sims who is the lawyer representing Dr. Karl Schneider a New Jersey doctor. Schneider had his medical license revoked and is now wanted on murder charges. Mr. Sims informs precinct Lieutenant Monahan, that Dr. Schneider wants to turn himself in

PRODUCTION TEAM

Directors: Shellie Kingaby-Hyser & Joshua Watson

Stage Manager: Delaney Smith

Assistant Stage Managers:

Sawyer Dixon, Angelina Thompkins & Blake Tydings

Costume, Sound & Scenic Design:

Entire Production Team

Additional Scenic Art:

Maggie Nolan, Bry Brentnall, Kaitlin Gaspar,
Katie Morrison, and Joshua Watson

Crew:

Bethany Grace Ivan
Dylan Baucom
Antonio Molina III

Bry Brentnall
Caroline Garrett
Megan Delgado

CHARACTERS

Detective "Jim" McLeod	Alex Harward
Detective Lou Brody	Perrin Kingaby
Detective Tom Gallagher	Tyler Warlick
Detective Callahan	Maggie Nolan
Detective O'Brien	Paul Walker II
Detective Nicholas Dakis	Sarah Benson
Lieutenant Monohan	Kyle Lilly
Patrolman Barnes	Lamar Kendrick-Dial
Patrolman Keogh	Jeffrey Dalton
Patrolman Baker	Amelia Watson
Endicott Sims	Thomas Murphy
Dr. Kurt Schneider	Aaron Hagood
Charlie Gennini	Justus Witcher
Lewis Abbot	Nicholas Valles
Reporter Joe Feinson	Josiah Hicks
Mary McLeod	Kaitlin Gaspar
Arthur "Jiggs" Kindred	RaSaun Elliot
Susan Carmichael	Melanie Griffiths
Miss Hatch	Salena Hyde
Mr. Albert J. Pritchett	Jared Johnson
Shoplifter (Mrs. Andrews)	Ciarra Boone
Tami Giacoppetti	Fernando Meza
Mrs. Farragut	Samantha Knapp
Mrs. Bagatelle	Safiatou Souaré
Miss Bagatelle	Danielle Souaré
Willy the Janitor	Eli Cannon
Mrs. Isabel Feeney	Emma Smith
Mr. Feeney	Max Hvasta
Crumb-Bum	Cannon Johnston
Mr. David D. Gallantz	Clai McNutt
Photographer "Teeney"	Noah Allison
Indignant Citizen	Trinity Ide
Secretary, Understudy:	Summer Post